

ASCE / SEI / SEAOH Training Seminar
New Building Code Provisions for Tsunami Loads and Effects

Program:

New Building Code Provisions for Tsunami Loads and Effects Training Seminar

Presenter:

Dr. Yong Wei, University of Washington Joint Institute for the Study of the Atmosphere and Ocean

Dr. Ian N. Robertson, University of Hawaii Civil & Environmental Engineering Department

Dr. Tiziana Rossetto, Director of the Epicenter Disaster Research Center at University College of London

Dr. Wei will discuss how probabilistic tsunami hazard maps are generated, with some analogy to how seismic hazard maps are similarly produced, for design purposes. Dr. Robertson will provide examples on how to use the ASCE 7-16 Code provisions that will be required by the next version of the Hawaii State Building Code.

In addition, world renowned earthquake/tsunami researcher, Professor Tiziana Rossetto, will provide a free lecture. Professor Rossetto is the recipient of the highly prestigious Shah Distinguished Lecture award given by the Earthquake Engineering Research Institute to outstanding disaster mitigation researchers. Dr. Rossetto will present the Shah Distinguished Lecture at UH as she starts a year of presentation around the world.
