

BIOGRAPHY

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

Captain Kristin A Dembia is proud to be serving as the Operations Flight Officer for AFROTC Detachment 175, University of Hawaii at Manoa, HI. She is responsible for recruiting, training and motivating prospective young men and woman to be leaders as Air Force officers. She serves as the AS 100 and AS 200 Instructor and is working towards a PhD in Civil Engineering.

Capt Dembia commissioned as an Air Force Civil Engineer out of The Ohio State in 2012 and was assigned to Joint Base Langley-Eustis. She was assigned to the Engineering Flight as a project programmer where she developed 100+ mission critical projects worth $5.7 million dollars to ensure uninterrupted operations for the base to include HQ ACC. After attending the Civil Engineer Basic Course she was assigned to the Operations Flight and became the resident Asset Management expert and efficiently vectored resources and maintenance efforts. As the Operations Engineering Element lead and was essential to executing $1M in emergency purchases/repairs, $9.3M in 36 service contracts and $17M in base infrastructure.

In October 2014 she moved to the Installation Management Flight to oversee Environmental Compliance, Accompanied and Unaccompanied Housing, and Real Property for the base, as well as Resources, Manpower and IT systems for the squadron. Following her deployment to Southwest Asia, she returned to JB Langley-Eustis to serve as the 633d Mission Support Group Executive Officer.

Capt Dembia grew up in Hamilton, Virginia with her parents, Anne and Bill and brother, Billy. She is thrilled to have made it to Hawaii for her second assignment accompanied by her husband LT Frank Dembia currently stationed at Joint Base Pearl Harbor Hickam. They are parents to a very talkative and affectionate cat named Miso.
